

Mr Bohra is a Consultant Surgeon at University Hospitals of Derby and Burton NHS Foundation Trust and Hon. (Cons.) Assistant Professor with Nottingham University. Along with Surgery in General, his special interest is Upper GI Surgery including oesophago gastric pathologies, Bariatric Surgery, and advanced laparoscopic procedures for benign and malignant conditions. His qualifications are MBBS MS MPhil FRCSEd PGCert (NHS Leadership Fellowship), PGDip (Clinical Education) MFSTEd FRCS(Gen.Surg).

He is a Fellow and Examiner of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh. He was an Honorary Associate Professor of Surgery for St George's University, Grenada and Senior Clinical Lecturer in Birmingham University before his move to Derby. In his clinical practice he covers most General Surgical emergencies admitted to the hospital. He routinely performs most elective and emergency general surgical and GI procedures like hernia repairs, cholecystectomies, endoscopy, laparotomies and endoscopies, along with his sub-specialty linked procedures. He did surgical research from Newcastle University. In 2005, he was awarded the CCST after successful completion of Higher Surgical Training and entered the GMC Specialist Register to start working as a substantive Consultant in the NHS. During the course of his training he had the privilege of working in numerous District General Hospitals and Teaching Hospitals across England and Northern Ireland.

He has an active interest in teaching, audit and research with regular satisfactory appraisals and Revalidation as a Consultant as per the DOH guidelines. He has published in various Peer reviewed journals and presented at both national and international forums. On a national level, he was a member of the Quality Statement Advisory Committee of NICE. and has 23 NICE Quality Statement Guidelines with his contribution. He is a National PEER Reviewer for Upper GI Cancer services. As a Consultant Surgeon he has performed various roles including surgical lead for the Clinical Guidelines Committee, Clinical Lead for Upper GI MDT, member of the New Interventions Approval Committee, Royal College Surgical Tutor, and Clinical Audit Lead.

Since 2011 he has been regularly involved with medicolegal work, reporting and assessing personal injuries and medical negligence claims. He has been working with a host of solicitors and medico-legal agencies. He has regularly attended medico legal courses and conferences and has the 'Bond Solon Civil Procedure Rules for Expert Witnesses Certificate'. He is compliant with the requirements of Part 35 and Practise Direction 35 protocol in relation to his responsibilities as an expert. He has also provided expert opinions for cases in Ireland and Bahamas.

He is a member of the BMLS (Birmingham Medico Legal Society), Federation of Forensic and Expert Witness and the National Expert Witness Agency (NEWA). He has also worked for NHS LA and has been an invited speaker for NHS LA in the past.

The medico legal interest in surgical issues includes medico legal reports, case management reporting, injury or trauma including hernia, abdominal injuries, accident claim, emergency surgery, medical errors, medical negligence, clinical negligence and accident claims pertaining to general health care, symptoms, major and minor general surgical procedures and complications, and subspecialty issues related to abdominal, laparoscopic, bariatric and gastrointestinal surgery.

